Jellyfish

The lives of three dissimilar women—bride Keren, catering crew-member Batia, and Joy, an attendee's employee—converge at a wedding in Tel Aviv. Each woman has her own unique set of problems to face. The film tells the story of three women whose intersecting lives paint a portrait of Israeli secular life. Poetic imagery draws connections between the lives of these women, all of whom find solace in the sea. Jellyfish was the winner of the 2007 Camera d'Or at the Cannes Film Festival.

A Matter of Size

After losing his job at a salad bar because of his weight, Herzl finds new employment washing dishes safely out of view from patrons in the kitchen of a Japanese restaurant. When Herzl's coworkers and new boss, Kitano, introduce him to sumo wrestling, he realizes he has found his calling. Energized, Herzl orchestrates a mutiny among the miserable ranks of a local weight-loss boot camp to recruit members for his own

Up the Wrong Tree

This is the story of Nits, a restless bum and hopeless cynic, who moves back to Israel to reunite with his girlfriend and their dog. When she refuses to take him in, he moves into an empty lot across the street from her apartment. He finds himself, contrary to his anti-political and anti-everything attitude, stuck on top of a tree overlooking his beloved's apartment, fearlessly leading an environmental battle against real estate sharks. For once in his life, he finds some comfort by staying put.
